“Working together – doing things differently at QMUL”

Equal Opportunities Statement

Queen Mary University of London is committed to the provision of equality of opportunity for all its students and staff. We pursue this commitment in the context of our Charter and of the objectives set out in our Strategic Plan, Queen Mary University of London Strategy 2014 – the next Five years. The latter states Queen Mary “aims to recruit students and staff of the highest intrinsic talent and potential, and to nurture their careers”. In furtherance of this objective, we are committed to create and maintain a community in which all people can learn, work and interact freely without fear of discrimination, prejudice or harassment.

All students and staff of Queen Mary will be treated equitably and will not be accorded less favourable treatment because of age, marital/civil partnership status, sex, gender, gender identity, disability, race, colour, ethnic or national origin, sexual & gender orientation, family circumstances, religious or political beliefs and transgender status. The only consideration must be that the individual is able to satisfy the requirements of the programme of study or post. The principles of this Policy will apply to visitors and contractors whilst on Queen Mary premises.

We confirm our commitment to develop, implement and monitor a programme of equality measures so that unjustifiable barriers to educational and employment opportunities are removed. This will enable Queen Mary to maintain its diverse student population and achieve a workforce that is representative of the communities it serves.

December 2016

Terminology

Equality Act 2010

The Equality Act 2010 consolidates, harmonises and extends previous equalities legislation. The main provision of the legislation came into force on 1 October 2010 and is now more consistent, clearer and easier to follow.

Public Sector Equality Duty

The public sector equality duty is a duty on public authorities such as QMUL, to consider or think about how their policies or decisions affect people who are protected under the Equality Act.

The Public Sector Equality Duty requires universities and other public authorities to:

- eliminate discrimination, harassment and victimisation and any other conduct that is prohibited by or under the Equality Act 2010
- advance equality of opportunity between people who share a relevant protected characteristic and people who do not share it
- foster good relations between people who share a relevant protected characteristic and those who do not share it.

Equality

Equality is ensuring individuals or groups of individuals are treated fairly and equally in relation to their needs. The Equality Act provides protection from discrimination on nine Protected Characteristics.

Protected Characteristics

The Protected characteristics referred to in this document are those outlined in the Equality Act 2010:

“Working together – doing things differently at QMUL”

- Age
- Disability
- Gender re-assignment
- Marriage or civil partnership
- Pregnancy or maternity
- Race
- Religion or belief (or no belief)
- Sex
- Sexual orientation

Socio-economic status, class or background is not a “protected characteristic” under the Equality Act, but we consider that the experiences of groups of people whose life chances may be affected by their social identity, in particular those from disadvantaged socio-economic backgrounds is an important issue to consider.

Diversity

Diversity literally means difference. When it is used as a contrast or addition to equality, it is about recognising individual as well as group differences, treating people as individuals, and placing positive value on diversity in the student community and in the workforce.

Inclusion

Inclusion is about focusing on the needs of every individual and ensuring the right conditions are in place for each person to achieve their full potential. Inclusion should be reflected in an organisation’s culture, practices and relationships that are in place to support a diverse workforce.

BME

Black and Minority Ethnic (BME) is the terminology normally used in the UK to describe people of non-white descent. However those that fall within this grouping and its sub-groups are far from homogeneous and it is not always easy to categorise them using a standard format.

Equality, Diversity Inclusion Strategy & Objectives 2016 -2020

Working together ...doing things differently at QMUL

Introduction

Queen Mary University of London's vision is to be an institution that "aims to recruit students and staff of the highest intrinsic talent and potential, and to nurture their careers". As a university we welcome the diversity of our staff and students, valuing difference as an important contribution to research, teaching and other activities. The university's commitment to equality, diversity and inclusion is reflected in our core Values and the following objectives, have been based on what the university wants to do as it strives to create an inclusive work and study environment where everyone can be themselves and their contributions are valued and respected.

Our Strategy

To be an institution that aims to recruit students and staff of the highest intrinsic talent and potential, and to nurture their careers, we have decided on a strategy based on three overarching objectives aligned to the Public Sector Equality Duty;

- EDI Strategic Objective 1
Eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation - by embedding Equality and Diversity into all that we do

- EDI Strategic Objective 2
Advance equality of opportunity between those who share a protected characteristic and those who do not

- EDI Strategic Objective 3
Foster good relations between people who share a relevant protected characteristic and those who do not share it.

"Working together – doing things differently at QMUL"

These objectives and subsequent actions will drive improvement in the university's professional and educational performance and help to accelerate the rate of progress towards equality of opportunity, greater diversity within the institution and effective and inclusive working practices. Collectively, these objectives and actions will provide a continuum of activity from compliance to best practice that can help the university promote its work as a lead institution on issues of equality, diversity and inclusion in research and innovation.

In developing these objectives we have emphasised equality, diversity and inclusion based on Disability, Race, Gender and Gender identity and Sexual Orientation, as these areas have been identified in both Staff and Student survey's as ones where we need to do more and have been agreed by members of the Equality & Diversity Steering Group and QMSE, in line with our commitment under the Equality Act 2010.

The actions and activities have been organised into an action plan for 2016 -2020. The very nature of this plan means that it is subject to further development as work progresses, changes occur within legislation and within the Higher Education sector. To ensure our focus is current and fit for purpose, progress against these objectives will be monitored centrally by the Equality and Diversity Steering Group and will be reported on a termly basis to QMSE and a periodic report will be sent to Council.

The activity attached to each strategic objective reflects our existing external commitments (eg Athena SWAN, Race Equality Charter Mark, and Stonewall) and provides a strategic approach to meeting future organisational needs.

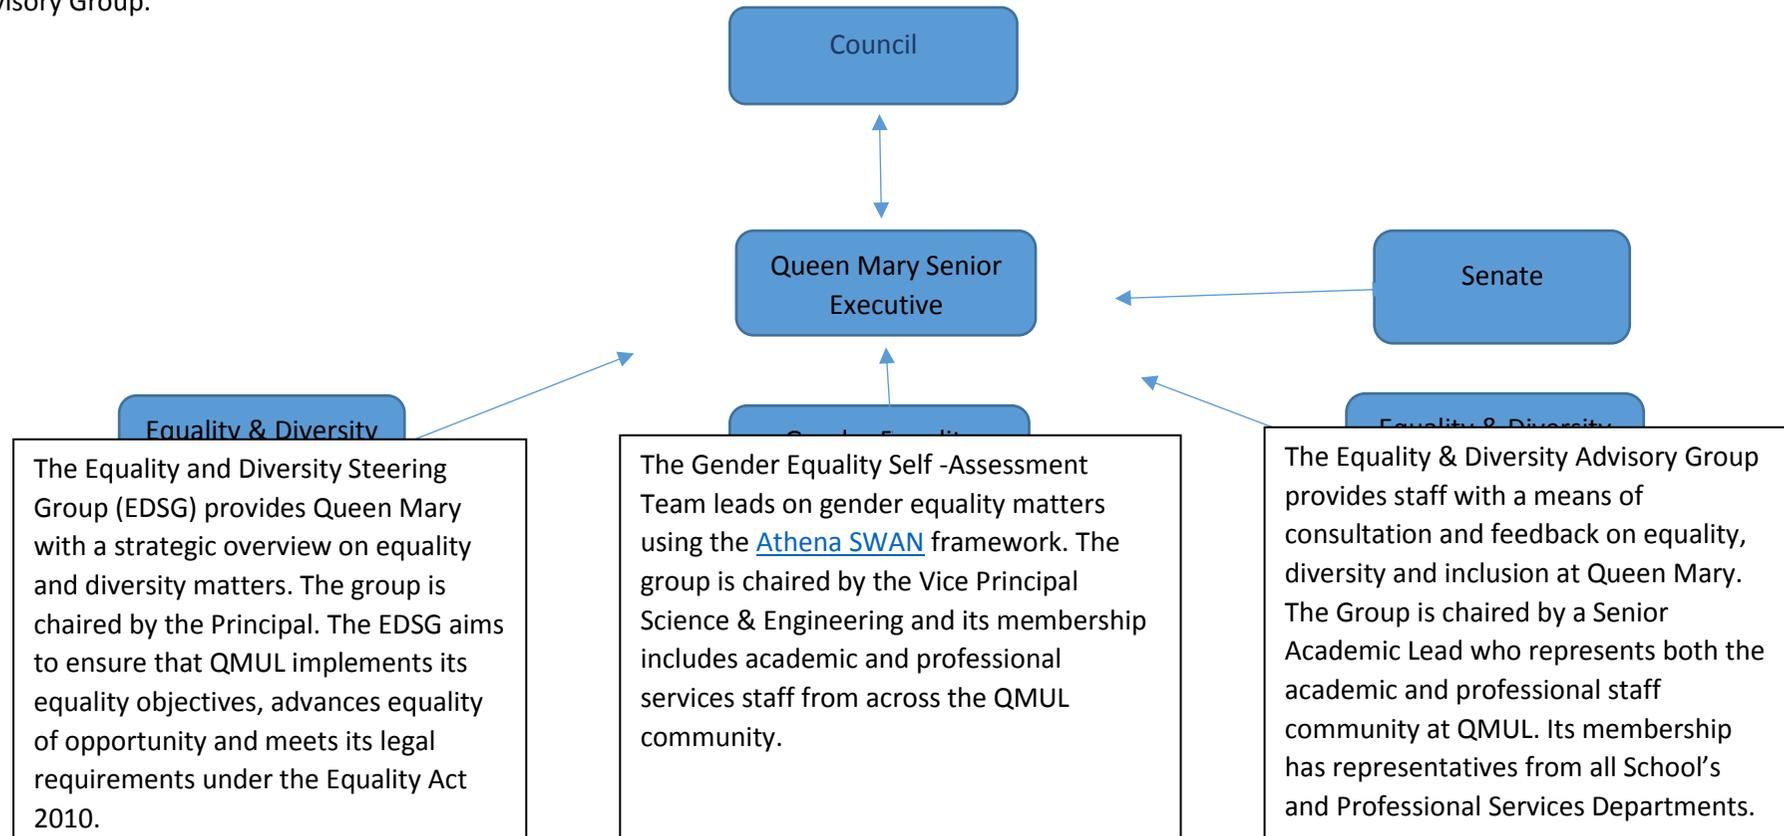

Responsibility for implementation of the plan does not rest with one part of the university, but will instead be taken forward by post-holders with the necessary expertise and mandate to report to the Equality and Diversity Steering Group. To further embed this activity a designated objective will be assigned to Heads of Faculties and Departments and one to Heads of Professional Services departments to help ensure engagement across the university,

These objectives will be publicised at local and university level. Progress will be monitored through the Planning and Accountability Review (PAR).

Equality and Diversity Strategic Groups

The University has established the following infrastructure to take forward its equality, diversity and inclusion agenda with reporting lines. The equality diversity and inclusion objectives have been agreed in consultation with members of the Equality and Diversity Steering Group and the Equality & Diversity Advisory Group.
