

COVID Mitigations for BSc in Oral Health:

QMUL announced a set of University Covid Mitigations in early February 2021 for assessments in the 2020-21 academic year. However, some of these were not directly applicable to Oral Health BSc programme. Barts and The London Students' Association, the Dental School, QMSU and QMUL have therefore been in discussions to develop a set of fair Covid mitigations for Oral Health BSc students that satisfy professional standard and external regulator needs whilst also allowing for mitigation against the impact of the pandemic on students throughout the 2020-21 academic year. Below are the mitigations agreed so far. These measures apply in the 2020-21 academic year only.

1. Assessment design and delivery:

1.1. All written examinations and assignments are online. Examinations will be 24 hour open book assessments. Assignments will be open for longer to allow the students to complete their work around their ongoing programme

1.2. Coursework deadlines: as per QMUL Covid Mitigations policy, there will be more flexibility for coursework deadlines where appropriate. Many deadlines have already been extended in light of Covid but students should submit extenuating circumstances for an extension if needed (e.g. for SSCs or essays).

1.3. Written exams:

1.3.1. BSc Years 1 and 2. If it is not reasonable to expect a topic to have been covered this year in light of the pandemic, it will not be included in the exam. However, all core content should have been covered in lecture or case-based teaching.

1.3.2. In all years, as is usually the case, for any question where a significant proportion of students struggled, the examination board will reassess such questions to see if they were appropriate in light of what students were taught and would have reasonably experienced in the past year. If a question is then deemed unreasonable it will be removed from the exam.

1.4. OSCE:

1.4.1. The OSCE (BSc Year 2) will be adjusted to reflect the student experience in light of the pandemic. This will not compromise our ability to confirm to the GDC that our students have achieved the required competencies because there will be opportunity to demonstrate the appropriate skills throughout the remainder of their programme.

1.4.2. A list of topics that can be assessed will be sent to students in advance so they know what to focus on to practice. This list will be released no later than 2 weeks before the date of your OSCE. We intend that this practice will be for this academic year only.

1.4.3. All stations will be counted in the OSCE in order to calculate your grade for passing and 50% overall will be needed to pass.

2. Extenuating Circumstances:

This section comes from the QMUL Covid Mitigations policy and has been included for reference. The fit to sit policy will apply in the usual way (if a student submits an assessment that assessment will count, except in rare cases where a student can show that they were unable to determine their fitness to sit). However, the E.C. policy has now been adapted (see below).

Please note E.C.s cannot be used to give additional marks or recognise a student's potential (as with all institutions); they are primarily a deferral mechanism, until a point where a student is in a position to undertake the assessment.

2.1. Self-certification will be expanded. There will now be no limit on the number of occasions on which a student can submit an E.C. claim for consideration without evidence (N.B., this is not the same as automatic approval).

2.1.1. Students will need to submit a claim to be considered. This will help with engagement and to identify and address concerns.

2.2. The definition of an extenuating circumstance has been temporarily expanded to recognise the effects of the pandemic on students' ability to engage in assessment. Typically, an E.C. relates to a circumstance which is both 'unforeseen and beyond a student's control'. This year, students will also be able to submit an E.C. claim for circumstances outside their control arising from the long-term effects of the pandemic.

2.3. We have updated the categories of E.C.'s to ensure that sufficient account is taken of caring responsibilities, suitable study environments, and access to the necessary hardware/software so that these will now be accepted as E.C.'s. Issues that have always been accepted as valid reasons for extenuating circumstances, such as domestic violence, but are (sadly) particularly likely to occur at this time, will continue to be accepted.

3. Standards and Examination Boards (applicable to all exams):

As usual, the pass mark for exams is not set by the performance of students in the exam but by using professional Standard Setters. The raw pass mark is therefore set in advance of the exam by standard setters and students' raw marks are adjusted accordingly before results are released. This means that an individual's performance will not affect the pass mark or someone else's performance.

3.1. Standard setting: The standard of the exam will be set to reflect the teaching that has been delivered and/or the experience students will realistically have had. Therefore questions on topics which may have been harder to cover or experience this year will have a lower pass mark than usual. That said, we are confident that all areas of required competence have been covered and current events have only affected the balance of experience and thus of the exam.

3.2. The examination boards will look compassionately on all students whilst ensuring standards are maintained. They will recognise the impact of the pandemic on clinical training and the need to ensure that any missed training is addressed during subsequent years.

3.3. Results and Resits: The exam board recognising the impact of the pandemic will assess students compassionately whilst ensuring that it maintains the standards expected for registration with the GDC. Someone who fails on their first sit will need to re-sit the failed exam. Failure in the 2nd sit would normally lead to de-registration subject to appeal and extenuating circumstances. However if they also fail their second sit, the exam board will automatically review the student's individual circumstances to determine whether they could be offered the opportunity of a first take<sup>1</sup>. The student would be expected to be in full attendance.

“The repeat of a module following failure at a previous attempt. This involves attendance and completion of all elements of the module, and submission of all assignments, whether assessed or not. First takes count towards the value of academic credit for which a student must normally be registered in an academic or developmental year. Module marks for first takes are not capped. First takes incur pro rata tuition fees.”
