

Expeditions Fund Report

As a PhD candidate in Drama, I traveled to Ghana to attend the International Federation for Theatre Research conference that took place at the University of Ghana in Accra from July 24-28, 2023. This was my second time attending the IFTR conference, an annual conference that happens in a different country, but my first time visiting Ghana. During the 2023 IFTR conference, I participated in the Political Performances Working Group and presented a paper based on my ongoing PhD research. In addition to attending the conference, sharing my work, and networking with researchers and artists from different countries, I briefly explored Accra to learn about the Ghanaian culture. During my week-long stay in Accra, I had valuable academic and travel experiences. Alongside a travel bursary I received from the IFTR, the QMUL expedition fund helped me pay my travel and conference expenses. Thank you.
